Speedhive Android app

General description

On this platform (iPhone application, Android application and website) you will find (live) results of events and practice events.

Event Results

The race results on this page contains (and nothing more than): name, start number, position in the event, distance, time, category information and sometimes gender or age; when this is necessary for categories in the results. The results are uploaded by the organization of the specific event in which you have participated. Organizations use this platform to inform the participants efficiently and quickly about their performance. MYLAPS does not have influence in which data is uploaded to Speedhive and which details are shared of an event. When you have questions regarding the content of the results, MYLAPS recommend you kindly contact the organization of the event where you have participated in.

Practice Results

The results on the webpage contains (and nothing more than): transponder number and or name, distance, time and location. The results are uploaded automatically by the organization of the track. The results can set to private in your MYLAPS account on speedhive.mylaps.com. In the mobile applications only personal practice sessions are shown.

Live Timing

Live Timing Speedhive can also show live updates of an event. This means that your name and other information of you which is known by the organization can be shared to Speedhive website or mobile application. For more information about this, MYLAPS recommend you kindly contact the organization of the event where you have participated in. This data is only visible for 48 hours. After that, the data is not visible or retrievable anymore.

Account

It could be possible that you have an MYLAPS-account. In this account, data is stored like address fields, because you might have bought a MYLAPS product in the past. These details are stored in your account, are not publicly visible, and can be edited in your account. Within Speedhive it is possible to add different data fields to your account like your avatar picture and YouTube videos. With your account you can connect to other racers and fans. Your account with your avatar picture, name, event results, videos and your connections are publicly visible. In case you do not want this, it is possible to set your profile to private.

When your profile is set to private only your name and avatar picture (default standard picture) is shown. In the mobile applications you can receive push notifications when there are updates about:

- When you or your connections' results have been published
- When you or your connection is starting to race
- When you have new connection

In case you do not want to receive these messages, you can disable this in the Speedhive app.

Data usage and distribution

MYLAPS can share Event and Practice results with third parties. It is also possible that information in anonymous form can be used for statistical purposes.

Cookies

MYLAPS uses cookies when you visit the website. For more information about the goal and purpose of cookies, please visit: www.mylaps.com/cookiepolicy.
